Dear Martha: Sept 29, 1943

Well here is that letter I said I would write. The only trouble is the letter is one day late. I am working to-night and not going out howling like I was to. I did very little work to-day & yesterday. I went down to get a G.I. license for a car or truck. But I did not get them because I did not know how to double cutch. Well I guess I am not truck driver. But If you can not drive you have to park. What do you say about that?

Yesterday I put mud in sand-bag which was not very many bags. That is enought about me now about a joke. The tale is "Afterthought"

It Happened in a maternity hospital. A nervous husband paced before the admission desk waiting to register his wife for immediate entrance. He fumbled & fidgeted. Finally he turned to the matter-to be and asked earnetly: "Darling are you sure you want to go thought with this?"

Well I guess I will get to you letter now. Say I like the envople. And that paper is O.K. too. I com to you part in the letter about our football game. Well we lost to a team in Ill. 27-6 that is bad. And yesterday we win our first game in 3 games. The score is 16-12. The coach has put all the boys off the team that has not got a starting position & who are in there last year. So that put off my brother. I was not very surprised. The coach will try to make a team next year. That is enough of the football.

You said that the jokes are corny so maybe I will not tell you any more jokes. How about a story. Did you ~~use~~ read the story about The Government employe finally won a raise from $2300 to $2400 a year, celebrated, then discovered it was all a mirage. The raise put her in a higher withholding tax bracket, and added $96 a year in tax deductions, $5 to her retirement fund. Her semi monthly pay check before the raise: $78.24 after the raise: $78.20 thow is that for a story?

With all the dirt under the bed you ~~tett~~ will make one h— of a house-wife. What do you mean about you confess you sin. Does that mean that I do not.

What do you mean about you will join up if you finish you better finish are I will not ~~take~~ talk to you any more.

I like that xxxx at the end. Do I get them. Well it is time for a joke ~~or~~ some thing like that.

A friend called on a new Dealer, new father of a boy. The infant was busy on a bottle (of milk I think).

"What do you think of him?" asked papa.
"Fine looking boy. Might grow up to be President."
The new deal father reared back.
"Why! What's the matter with Roosevelt?"
I hop that do not go bad become of you political party.
Well, that is about all of the new - view of the Barracks.
I will see you latter.

Love,
"Hop"
