Dearest Maatta,

I have not forgot you. I just did not have time to write you. But as I have a little time now I must try to answer one of your letters.

I went to a show last night and saw a very good picture. I saw 'Practically Yours.' I nearly died laughing at some of the parts. And if you did not see it you should. I guess it's pretty old by now at home.

I heard Kun & Cokes in the radio and by the Swedish states. It was pretty good. And in some ways I think of that as going over here.

I see in your letter were they are going to have a flood. Well, on the radio today it said that it's the worst flood in a long time. My Cousin Ja. lives near a river & if it gets to high they have to use a boat to get to their house back as the roads are all covered. I hope that it is not so bad as their house will float away.

So you think Hannu is a good cook. Well as she did not cook while I was home it's hard to tell you she is. But I am from Mo. and you got to know me.

We had hard laid eggs for breakfast & they were O.K. but not like fried eggs. I got a lot of them and if I had paint I would make Easter

Egg. Did I tell you that the kids over here never heard of that. Boy I have had a lot of good times on an Easter Egg hunt.

You would like I know my weight I think it's 13 stones & one pound. In your language it's about 192 lbs with the cloths on. Now that's not bad as I stayed for that at 185 lbs. But maybe you like a smaller man like Frankie. How do you like you man?

I never rode on a trackless Trolley. I have seen them but I don't rather on them. I would love to do that in Indianapolis to see them.

I really like the cloths you write me about I hope it all come true so I can see you in those cloths. And that Raspberry Tasting Lipstick.
I really like that but I'm afraid you would not love it as long if only it would come true.

I am very sorry you had to wait so long for this letter but I really do not have any time.
Since I got a new job. You see I am now putting up clothes. And they sure got a lot of them. I will try to write you a nice long letter Friday.

I miss you & love you so very much I hope that I stay in your dreams for a long time. I really do love you. Ago.
