My Perfect Valentine

Hello, Darling - I love you very much - and miss you more every day.

We haven't heard from Erwin yet, but Daddy thinks he should reach Chicago about Sunday and be home at the latest Monday morning. If that is true then I'll be back Wednesday night - but since I don't know and he might not get here then - I can't plan on that definitely.

They're playing "temptation" on the radio now. Remember they played that at the "Roller Folies" that night. Really like that song. My landlady is getting a 12 record player and I'm going to buy Perry Como's recording of that. The accompaniment sounds like a heart beat - and it really gets me.

I haven't much to say today - no news - and I haven't done anything - Daddy asked me last night if I didn't want to go to the movies sometime - but I spent my money on the suit and besides - I came home to see my family. That's a little beside the point - but I just wanted to explain why I don't have too much to write about.

I wish my brother would hurry and get home - I'm so anxious to get back to St. Louis and you. I miss you so darn much - the days seem to drag - Mother told me this morning I looked like 7 days of rainy weather - but she knows the reason - so I won't elaborate on that.

It's really spring today - nice and warm and the sun is really hot. Ever so often the dark clouds sneak up - but go away again.

I've been writing this letter an hour and said nothing - so I'd better give it up as a bad job - but honestly - between my mother and Mary Ann popping in every few minutes talking my arm off - God - this is a madhouse - never a dull moment.

Pardon the interruption - but I just went out to eat a little lunch. Gotta eat - you know.

My horoscopes this morning read "romantic mail" - and yesterday it was "a vacation" - well they aren't always wrong - are they?

I wanted to write to Dordie - but just never seem to get around to it. Wonder how she's making it by this time. - just a thought in the wonder what column.

I think I'll hoist the old anchor and sail now -
I can't think of anything else to say except that I love you with all my heart. Do you get tired of hearing this? You'd better not because you're going to hear it the rest of your life.

Darling - I want you so very, very much Until I write tomorrow it's Pleasant dreams, my sweet -

Butch
