Dearest Darling -

I just got a letter from you this morning and I'm walking on clouds.

So you can't even get up from the floor to see what date it is. Boy but you do take the cake. What a life you do lead.

If you find some splashes on this letter - don't mind about it cause mom is baking a cake and I'm sitting here licking the kettle. Don't say it - I know it's kid stuff - but I still like to do it.

Daddy is building a fence in the back yard. The neighborhood kids have our grass all worn off so this year we decided to do a little bit about it so yesterday I dug post holes - and if you think that isn't something maybe you'd better try it sometime. It's really work, but daddy hurt his hand about a year ago and it was pretty hard for him to do - besides I thought it was fun - even if I did work up a sweat.

I guess you're glad to have a steady job again - I know it just drives me nuts just to sit around and wait for something to happen.

I got a letter from Pool the other day. She went back to Paducah and is working there in a hospital. Her minister got her the job since she won't be able to take State Board for another year. I will - I'll be taking it with her again anyway.

I know I'll be taking that evening train back - that's the one I always get back to St. Louis. Of course that brother of mine hasn't let loose with any news yet - so Fin still up a tree. Darling - I don't know just when he'll get here - we've been expecting him every day - Guess the saying "a watch pot never boils" is quite true 'cause we've all been planning on it quite strongly.

That typhoon they had in the South Pacific was really pretty bad. Fin glad Ray is in the Philippines instead of there -

Fin sorry that Mrs. de Basteini got you out of bed - I didn't think she'd call you - If I had known I should have told her not to call before noon. I didn't give it a thought - my apologies, Ollie - Fin sorry.

I wrote her a letter and told her as much as I knew myself and told her I'd write as soon as I knew.
 I don't see why Jayne can't stay a few days by herself - she's 20 years old and goodness knows she should be able to take care of herself - but I can understand she wouldn't want her to be alone. She could have some of her girl friends stay with her. (Just a thought.)

Mrs. ~~de~~ Bastiani does get pretty lonesome & guess and maybe a few days out of town would do her good.

I don't know just where this house is that she has - I do know that the nearest bus line is Chippewa and that is 6 blocks. I hope I get back there before she starts moving. We got that darn bottle in my closet and I'm sure Kate for her to find it and get any ideas.

Say - you've really been playing cards a lot lately - no wonder I make so many blunders when I only play every blue moon. Since we been home - we only played cards ~~once~~ twice - that was with Mary Ann once when we played Casino and with my brothers one night when we played poker. Thank Heaven it wasn't strip poker or I'd have lost the shirt off my back. I'm just not a card player. It bores me simply because I know so few games.

Is Mack still going with that girl to meet bowling? I hope things turn out okay for him next week.

Hum - that Grand Theatre. I must go there sometime. It seems to hold quite a fascination for people (dig - dig!)

I'd like to have heard the House of Charm Orchestra - They're really wonderful. Evelyn really plays the violin, doesn't she?

I know how you dislike writing - I understand so don't let it worry you. I think you've been doing swell. I have 8 letters here and I told you I'd settle for two a week. Don't let that discourage you about writing 'cause I really love to hear from you.

I'll let you know definitely when I'm coming back as soon as I know -

So see close for now - loving you - missing you as I always do.

Oh yes - Mary Ann and I were cleaning wall paper upstairs yesterday and when we got tired of working, we started throwing wall paper cleaner at one another. Some fun, but it didn't last long. Mother came up and for a few minutes I thought she was going to twinkle over her knee and maybe you think she couldn't do it - hum.

I must close now - be seeing you, Darling and remember that you mean the world to me - so until tomorrow - Good night (over) my love -

and take care of yourself for me -
