My Dearest,

Today is the 4th straight day I wrote you a letter. I told you I would write you a letter for each one of the letters I got from you. Well, I have just about done that now.

But I do not write you because I love & am sure your letters also became I am this about you.
And for I wish we could take a walk in that park & night. We don't have any big moon over here.
But just feel like I need you tonight a lot more than I did before. It is like that some nights.

We are having very nice weather today in fact we had had for the last couple days. I sure hope it does not get like it did last year. Boy, it was a cold year.

The news over here is very lull.
I did in a picture last night. I think the name of it was 'In our Time'. It was not a bad picture all about Poland.
Did you see it? As you like that Paul Hemmet? a more thing. I thought you may have seen it.

Do not forget what I said about your slides. You got the first then your letter & me. The tests you got are more important & we then your letter. As we can make up for that lost time when I get back.

So you are going to say good bye to Lutheran soon & hello to the army. As from what we can read may be.
I will send you an article we got in our paper. Is it getting bad. Well, I hope every thing turns out ok for you.

So you think I will be home by Easter with ^{the} date as it is you think I will be home then.
I am really making a mess out of this letter. But you are tired that I can not get my hands ³ a word to work together. I should be in bed now.

You said that you never wanted to confess your love for me until you could be it in person. Well, I still did not hear you do it. So, I will be waiting & hear you do it when I get back. I did a very bad job of myself so much with some love & may a lot of each other. We are got a lot of it.

I am like Ed Valentine and I got from you. And especially the words. It's the same old love you've always known,
But since you're gone it's grown from That is very nice. Thanks a lot for the card.

Good night my sweetheart, may you have a lot of good dreams as you know I love you very much. All my love
Ollie

Draft of Civilian Nurses Delayed Until All Cadets Can Be Inducted

Optimistic War News Seen Killing Chances Of Work-Fight Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (ANS)—As WPB Chief Julius A. Krug opened a last-ditch Administration campaign to save the work-or-else bill, the House Military Affairs Committee yesterday voted to delay drafting civilian nurses until all qualified graduates of the war-created Cadet Nurse Corps were inducted.

The committee said that the number of cadet graduates had not been determined in writing an amendment which would call for local draft boards to canvass all cadets before proceeding with a general induction.

Even as Krug told a radio audience that the production of war materials must increase ten per cent between now and June 1 to meet military requirements, United Press said general opinion gave the work-or-else bill little chance for passage.

"Voluntary methods of controlling manpower," Krug said, "worked well in the past when the manpower shortage was not as general as today. But the problem now has got beyond the procedures of voluntary cooperation."

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson in a radio broadcast today plugging the "work or jail" bill said "we dare not delay the war work law any longer." He said "deadly shortages are now looming before us at a moment when every ounce of your power should be thrown into combat."

Meanwhile, Congressional observers doubted that even a modified version of the measure—such as a voluntary work measure proposed by the Senate Military Affairs Committee—would pass. Many Senators agreed that the current good news from the fighting fronts was diminishing the bill's chances.

A new deferment recommendation plan designed to assure that vital workers would remain on the job instead of going into uniform was announced last night. Under the plan, government procurement agencies would certify to local draft boards men 18 through 29 who should remain in war industries.

The new system replaces one under which employers requested occupational deferments for men in the 18 to 26 age group. Local boards still will retain the right to grant or deny deferments.
